National governments fund half of the studies that report a funder n = 9,418 studies reporting at least one funder. Bars show the share of these studies naming at least one funder of each type (number of studies in brackets); a study can name funders of several types, so shares sum to more than 100%.